Mild Thaw Expected Tomorrow
Public Schools Still Closed In Hudson

Hopelessly clogged streets, crippled bus and rail schedules and curtailed food deliveries posed the main problems for 600,000 Hudson Countyites today as they tried to shake off the persisting effects of Monday's 17-inch snowfall.

In Jersey City, the board of commissioners gave Mayor Witkowski emergency powers to deal with the snow problem and the city sought help from trucking firms.

All Main Arteries Clear
In Jersey City—Heckman

Jersey City Commissioner Heckman said today all main arteries in the city had been cleared.

Bergen Avenue and Central Avenue bus service had resumed, he said.

HECKMAN SAID Commissioner Murray had sent a telegram to the Montgomery-West Side Bus Co., ordering it to resume operation.

J. Edward Bennett, president of the bus company, said earlier today he sent his drivers home because West Side Avenue was still impassable.

However, Heckman said the street had been cleared and was wide enough so two buses could pass each other on it. He said a Public Works Department plow was being sent to the bus company yards to clear the garage exits for the buses.

HECKMAN SAID police would begin towing away double-parked autos and trucks today to permit the driving roadways on main streets to be widened.

And at 1 p.m. today, the Public Works men were to begin clearing city side streets.

Heckman said bad clutches were the reason 11 Jersey City snow plows were lined up on Montgomery Street Monday night and not out clearing streets.

ABOUT 50 PER CENT of the city snow plow-equipped trucks faltered under the strain of the heavy snowfall, Heckman said.

Of the city's 36 plow-equipped trucks, 14 have burned out clutches, but emergency repairs are being made.

Men Working Long Hours

Manpower Secret Weapon
Of Jersey City Fire Dept.

The Jersey City Fire Department has a secret weapon for firefighting during the snow emergency—manpower.

Firemen have been working an 84-hour week since the first day of the snowstorm; manual power is being used to get equipment through snow-clogged side streets; and firemen are even ready to snap into action with bucket-brigade techniques.

SO FAR, firemen consider themselves lucky that there have been no serious fires off major streets. Side streets are just as impassable to fire equipment as to cars and buses.

PARIS (UPI)—Louis (Satchmo) Armstrong, emerging from a 20,000-mile musical swing around troubled Africa, said today he was so pleased with his trip and the people he met that he will adopt two African babies from Cameroun.

The trumpet-player's wife, Lucille, said.

"I don't agree with my husband's plan to adopt two Cameroun babies I want to adopt one child from Cameroun and another from Ghana. We liked Ghana's President Kwame Nkrumah so much, I'm afraid he'll be hurt if we don't adopt a child from his country too.

The Armstrongs, who have been married 20 years, are childless.

Complete Vote: JFK By 112,251

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With complete election returns in from all 50 states, and all but two states — Illinois and Rhode Island — proclaiming their votes as official, Sen. John F. Kennedy today held a slim 112,251 margin over Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

Rhode Island and Illinois officials said they expected to make public their official returns in the next few days. It would end the tabulating that has run 35 days since the Nov. 8 election.

The unofficial tally by United Press International was:

Kennedy — 34,230,894 (49.714 per cent)

Nixon — 34,118,643 (49.551 per cent)

Others — 505,658 (0.735 per cent)

Total — 68,855,195

Kennedy Is Naming Brain Trust

WASHINGTON (UPI) — If his early appointments are any indication, President-elect John F. Kennedy’s administration will be a “brain trust.”

Six of the first nine officials appointed by Kennedy can be described as “eggheads.”

Adlai E. Stevenson, most frequently described by this term, will be the U.S. ambassador to the United Nations. He held an honorary degree from Oxford University in England among a long list of honors received from universities and colleges around the world as well as in the United States.

The new secretary of state, Dean Rusk, was a Rhodes scholar, as was Theodore Sorensen, who’ll be Kennedy’s chief counsel in the White House.

Connecticut Gov. Abraham Ribicoff, who will be secretary of health, education and welfare, graduated “cum laude” from the University of Chicago.

There are two members of Phi Beta Kappa, an honorary scholastic fraternity, in Kennedy’s official family — Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara, who won the honor at Harvard University, and G. Mennen Williams, assistant secretary of state for Africa, who earned his at Princeton University.

Mothers Braved Storm
All Margaret Hague Staff Aid Stork in 60 Landings

Least disturbed by snow and storm are Jersey City’s newest citizens — the nearly 60 babies who arrived at Margaret Hague Hospital since the first flake fell Sunday.

The difficulties many mothers met getting to the hospital are forgotten now Dr. Joseph Donnelly, medical director, was able to confirm today that they and babies are doing nicely.

THE STORM, however, has swelled the hospital census. Mothers and babies who ordinarily would have gone home the last two days will be kept until traveling conditions improve. The holdover babies and the newcomers now total more than 200.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Backstairs with the President-elect.

If the future first lady, Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy, is serious about riding to hounds with the foxhunters of Virginia after she recovers from the birth of her second child, it could produce some interesting possibilities.

After the inauguration Mrs. Kennedy will be accompanied wherever she goes by Secret Service agents. This raises the intriguing possibility of the Secret Service chief, U. S. Baughman, having to go before the House Appropriations Committee to ask money for proper hunting attire, horses and possibly some instruction on the elaborate etiquette of th eVirginia hunt country.

Will there be a horse for the pool photographers, another for the press association reporters? Will the Secret Service equip their horses with short-wave radios?

Probably no sport in America is taken quite as seriously by the participants as fox hunting in Virginia. The lordly masters of the hunt in their pink coats might have something to say other than "Tallyho" at the sight of a majestic hunting horse with radio aerials protruding from the saddle.

Moon Shot Postponed

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — The Federal Space Agency today postponed an attempt to put the first artificial satellite into orbit around the moon.

A 10-story Atlas-Able rocket remained poised for the shot which could be rescheduled as early as Thursday morning. The Atlas-Able, fourth and last of a hard-luck rocket family with a record of two moon-shot failures and an on-the-pad explosion, carries a 338-pound “space laboratory” in its nose.

Scientists said only that “technical difficulties” prevented the shot today.

Houk Could Be Hurt By Misplaced Loyalty

By TOM LAUENSTEIN

We'd like to hoist the warning flag for the benefit of Ralph Houk, the new Yankee pilot who will be compared with Casey Stengel at every turn.

Please, Ralphie boy, don't count too much on the players who helped you when you managed the Denver farm club a few years ago.

RECENTLY WE read quotes from Houk in which he said, "Duren can be a successful starter because he was one in Denver... Blanchard is an outstanding catcher. You should have seen what he did for me in Denver."

There is a sense of loyalty as Houk speaks. Now Houk has reached his goal, managing the big club—the Yankees. He wants to show he hasn't forgotten the players who made him a success in the minors.

Such loyalty got Bill Rigney off on the wrong foot when he replaced Leo Durocher as manager of the then New York Giants. Rign couldn't forget the players who helped him succeed in Minneapolis.

Retiring Jim Howell Calls Conerly His 'Greatest Player'

By NORMAN MILLER

Jim Lee Howell, retiring as head coach of the New York Football Giants at the close of the present season, bade his farewell to the press yesterday with a tribute to quarterback Charlie Conerly.

"I don't want to start any arguments, but the greatest player we've had has been Charlie Conerly," Howell said in summing up his seven-season career at the Giants' final weekly lunch gathering of the year.

"HE'S SMART, he has all the courage you can ask of a man and we'd never have gotten this far without him," Howell lauded.

"He's just the greatest in my book.

"He's played when he's been hurt. He's taken real punishment in the years when we had no line to protect him and few good receivers to throw to.

"Yet he's never whimpered and he never complains," Howell went on. "He's a lot of man for me."

HOWELL and Conerly were Giants teammates in 1948. This was Howell's last season as a player and Conerly's first. Howell insistently went along with Conerly as quarterback during his early years as head coach, despite frequent criticism from the fans and press.

These were the seasons when the Giants were making the switch from Steve Owen's old A-formation to the T-formation. And Conerly, a single-wing quarterback in college, had a tough time during the transition years.

Howell's faith was rewarded when the Giants won the N.F.L. championship in 1956—his third season as head coach. With Conerly still in charge, the Giants also won eastern division titles in 1958 and 1959, losing in the championship playoff to the Baltimore Colts each season.

HOWELL STEPS out as head coach and takes over a position as Giants' supervisor of player personnel at the close of the present season. The Giants thus far have given no indication as to who Howell's successor will be.

"I'm happy you're staying with us," Giants president Jack Mara told Howell at yesterday's lunch gathering. "If you're half as successful in your new job involving player personnel, the next coach will have a snap.

All Hudson School Teams Entered in Tournaments

By FRED CRANWELL

There was a time when the county's better basketball teams were honored with berths in mid-season and post-season tournaments . . . Only a select few participated . . . But this season, every club in Hudson will take part in a Christmas tournament and it is obvious by some of the scores recorded to date that many do not belong.

Marist and St. Joseph's of West New York are fortunate in that they compete in out of state tournaments in New York City . . . But the North Hudson schools compete against themselves while the Jersey City schools do likewise . . . Snyder and St. Peter's Prep will take part in the St. Peter's College Invitation which has eight of the top-ranked schoolboy quintets in the state . . . And only the Peacock play picks its field on merit.

Demarest is listed as the team to beat in the North Hudson field with the Red Wings' top competition coming from Weehawken, Emerson and St. Michael's . . . With Snyder and St. Peter's Prep in the St. Peter's College tourney, Dickinson would seem to have a clear field in the Jersey City tournament . . . The players who figure to shine in the Christmas play include Richie Hughes of Weehawken, Johnny Wendelken of Demarest, Mike Whelan of St. Michael's, Frank Foerster, Mike Rooney and Pete DeLisa of Snyder and Jim Barry of St. Peter's Prep.
Where Were The Plows?

Public Works Director Heckman has a large job of investigating to do as soon as he is through with the more important business of making Jersey City's streets passable.

It will be up to him to answer to everybody's question: Where were the plows?

We have heard numerous answers. None is flattering to the Public Works Department. There are rumors like the one about the snowplow parked outside a tavern. Or the taxicab driver's story of finding 50 men sitting around the garage Sunday night and, upon asking when they intended to start clearing the streets, getting the answer: "When it stops snowing."

There is the inexplicable parking of 11 snowplowing trucks on Montgomery Street in the small hours of Tuesday morning... a circumstance one Public Works official called "Impossible!" but which definitely happened. Eleven of Jersey City's snowplows parked at a time when every available effort should have been made to untangle our city's mess.
